

Clergy who served in Upper Creggan

In penal times parishes as we know them did not exist, but areas were assigned to a priest to administer and he would have to say Mass in places hidden from the "Redcoats" of English law. In Creggan Graveyard there is a plaque commemorating Fr David McGilmurray of Carnally who was ordained by St. Oliver Plunkett at Ardpark near Louth Village, and who laboured in this area.

This area was known as Creggan and it was only in 1795 that the area was divided into the current parishes of Lower Creggan and Upper Creggan. It is from this date that we have our list of clergy who served in the parish.
